Museums as educational and cultural institutions inform societies by providing opportunities to understand who they were, are, and going to be. These institutions intend to preserve, interpret and disseminate historical, cultural and scientific knowledge among the masses and thus keep the collective memory of people alive. Since inception, museums have evolved considerably from cabinet of curiosities to encyclopaedic museums, from collection oriented displays to present day concept centric exhibits, but their ultimate purpose is still the same- to be relevant to all kinds of people by serving the heterogeneous needs of the society.

In India, since classical times, there have always been institutions/cultural centres providing experience and knowledge to the Indian society, which were quite similar to the present day museum concept in terms of collections and functions. Stupas, Mathas, Chitrashalas, Vithi and Alekhyagriha are some of the best examples which may certainly be considered nearer to traditional museums as experience makers.

India, a diverse country with heterogeneous population, diverse languages, culture, ethnicity and traditions has witnessed growth of varied kind of museums since the establishment of the first museum in India i.e. Indian Museum, Kolkata. At present, there are more than a thousand museums in the country and many more are being established every year. There is an increasing awareness about the role and relevance of museums amongst people and they have now become an important part of the discussions amongst the policy makers. Ministry of Culture, Government of India is proud to have provided financial assistance for setting up of new museums and initiated several projects for establishing specialised museums in India. The Ministry of Culture has established 383 museums till date, out of which 145 have been commissioned and opened during the last 9 years.

The International Council of Museums (ICOM) has been organising International Museum Day (IMD) every year since 1977. The theme for this year's IMD is "Museums, Sustainability and Well-being" which highlights the role of museums in shaping and creating sustainable futures. The theme of IMD for this year echoes the theme of India's G20 Presidency for 2023, "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam –One Earth. One Family. One Future"

The Ministry of Culture is pleased to celebrate International Museum Day by organising three-day International Museum Expo which is a historic event and the largest of its kind, inviting not only Indian professionals but also experts from around the world to display new technology and initiatives for museums. The Museum Expo aims to facilitate holistic conversation around museums and showcase the diverse cultural heritage exhibited by various museums across the country.

The Directory of Museums in India being unveiled during the Museum Expo 2023, is one of its kind and will offer a complete up-to-date overview of the museums that have emerged since the establishment of the first museum in India. I am optimistic that this Directory will help professionals, academicians, researchers and museum enthusiasts to learn about various kinds of museums existing in India with a short glimpse of their collections and services.

Message

India, the largest democracy of the world and one of the most culturally and geographically diverse places on earth, is a large living museum with innumerable pockets of cultural and natural heritage being preserved, sustained, represented and communicated by its people, art, and architecture.

The new museum definition given by the International Council of Museums in Prague in 2022 focuses on the expanding role of museums in relation to the challenges of present times. ICOM, established in 1946-47 is a global organization for museums. The museum definition given by ICOM has repeatedly been revised through a democratic process in an effort to keep museums relevant to the changing needs of Society. Every year since 1977, ICOM has organized International Museum Day (IMD), which is like a beacon pointed towards future action for the international museum community. Theme for this year's IMD is "Museum, Sustainability and Wellbeing", which resonates with the theme of India's G20 Presidency for 2023, "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam –One Earth. One Family. One Future"

As part of the second phase of "Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav", the Ministry of Culture is happy to renew its policy and focus towards museums. The Museum Expo being organised by the Ministry of Culture, Govt. of India to celebrate the International Museum Day is a testament to the Ministry's commitment towards museums.

The Directory of Museums of India being released during Museum Expo is a work in progress which, I hope, is revised every year with significant additions in numbers and types of museums across India.

Real Museums, as Orhan Pamuk says are places where Time is transformed into space. Changing audience profile, visitor expectation, and the emergence of new age mixed media and artificial intelligence driven technologies has shifted the gaze from the artefact being as its centre, to the audience and its allied concentric circle of engagement through museum programming, publications, merchandising and gastronomy, that allows museums to emerge as cultural spaces with enhanced footfalls, repeat visits and prolonged stay. Mediated by technology, the trajectory of how a museum is holistically experienced is becoming more layered and inclusive with emphasis on immersion of all senses beyond just the visual.

In India as land of smriti, our ancient Indian traditions have been kept alive through story-telling and oral transmissions, where the intangible memory or remembering takes precedence over material evidence. Therefore, as breweries of memory, museums negotiate the past for the benefit of posterity and act as authentic and anecdotal repositories of tangible history and intangible heritage of a time, place and its people.

The concept of museum is constantly evolving with every innovative iteration from being a 'seat of the Muses' to a 'cabinet of curiosity' to the NCSM and CSMVS that provide access to Museum on Wheels, MAP does an a Museum in a Box, the Kiran Nadar Art Museum is the only Museum in a Mall, Museums of a franchise model like the Wax Museum and Museum of illusions down to the latest technology driven Virtual Experiential Museums available on a URL, or as a 360 degree Van Gogh show and even better Museum in Metaverse with in-built smart contracts to encash vanity.

In 1936 the first Survey Report on the state of Museums mentioned 105 Museums in the country, set up over the last 140 years. In the last two decades alone, as result of the interventions of the Ministry of Culture's Schemes for Development of Museums, namely the Museum Grants Schemes and the Scheme for Promotion of Culture of Science, we have managed to set up 383 or approximately one-third of the total museums in the country, which is more than three times the number we had at the time of independence.

Drawing from the pandemic experience, which hugely impacted the Museums in terms of footfall driven revenues, the ICOM theme for this year focused on 'Museums, Sustainability and Wellbeing', is a bang on solution and future oriented.

In a country with close to 1200 museums, it is indeed heartening that as part of the International Museum Expo 2023, we are bringing out a Directory of Museums in India as a first step towards introducing the other 'D' of Data Analytics and evidence-based policy making in the domain of Museums. This much needed Directory will serve as a useful resource for all Museums, Museum Professionals, Academic and Cultural Institutions, Researchers and even Museum Goers from India and abroad, to access experience and connect with the large number of Museums in the Country to establish institutional linkages and to undertake collaborative ventures.

I extend my compliments to the research and design Team for this wonderful compilation and to all the collaborators for this great coming together my gratitude. May this show us the way forward and stay updated as we move from this year to the next, gathering many more Museums in our fold.

Message

Cultural Heritage as defined by UNESCO is ‘...both a product and a process, which provides societies with a wealth of resources that are inherited from the past, created in the present and bestowed for the benefit of future generations’.

UNESCO, as the UN specialized agency with a global mandate on culture, is engaged in unleashing the power of culture for the achievement of the United Nations 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Culture is being increasingly recognized as a cross-cutting dimension that may foster a paradigm shift to renew policy making towards an inclusive, people-centered and context-relevant approach. At the global level, culture has been recognized as an enabler of growth and sustainable development. In 2021, the Rome Declaration of G20 Ministers firmly positioned culture as an engine for propelling sustainable socio-economic recovery. The UNESCO World Conference on Cultural Policies and Sustainable Development – MONDIACULT 2022, adopted a Declaration affirming culture as a ‘global public good’.

Recognizing the synergies between culture and other policy areas, and considering its impact on various dimensions of development, culture was integrated into the G20 agenda as a Culture Working Group in 2021. CWG meetings during India’s Presidency of G20 are focused on four priority areas - Protection and Restitution of Cultural Property, Harnessing Living Heritage for a Sustainable Future, Promotion of Cultural Industries and Creative Economy, Leveraging Digital Technologies for Protection and Promotion of Culture.

Living heritage, that encompasses traditional knowledge systems and cultural practices, can help achieve environmental sustainability as well as improve economic well-being. The Culture Working Group under India’s G20 Presidency aims to mobilise the support of member states in promoting traditional knowledge systems and cultural practices by leveraging existing initiatives of members and mainstreaming living heritage in policy frameworks. The second G20 Culture Group (CWG) meeting in Bhubaneswar is centred around the theme ‘Harnessing Living Heritage for a Sustainable Future’. To foster an inclusive dialogue on harnessing living heritage for a sustainable future, India’s G20 Presidency also organised a webinar around the theme.

The theme for the 2023 International Museum Day ‘Museums, Sustainability and Well-being’ is also reflected in the theme of India’s G20 Presidency for 2023, “Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam –One Earth. One Family. One Future”. As highlighted in the ICOM Resolution of Kyoto 2019 “On sustainability and the implementation of Agenda 2030, Transforming our World”, all museums have a role to play in shaping and creating sustainable futures, and they can do this through educational programmes, exhibitions, community outreach and research.

The Directory of Museums in India is an exhaustive documentation of the existing museums in India reflecting diversity of museums in terms of collection, type and ownership.

Preface

Museum is a repository of man's heritage and in the same sense it is also a reflection of the society it emerges from and it caters to.

Museums as social institutions have had a long journey since the establishment of the Ashmolean Museum, the first public museum in the world, in England in 1683. These institutions have undergone many changes with regard to their mission and vision, themes, collection, governing body, or the area they serve. With the subsequent development in the 'ICOM definition of museums', the evolution in the museum sector around the world has seen the genesis of several new museums with new concepts, vision, themes, ideas etc.

Museums today have come a long way from being representations of royal power to representations of people's memory, from the cabinets of curiosity to mediums of communication and interpretation, from being restricted to privileged elite to public service, public oriented and public accountable organizations.

International Council of museums, established in 1946-47 as a global organization for museums, has acted as the conscience keeper of museums all over the world issuing guidelines, code of ethics, and best practice models. Between 1977-89 the body became truly international when through a resolution adopted in Moscow in 1977 it decided to support countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America through training of museum staff. Every year since 1977, ICOM has organised International Museum Day (IMD), which is like a beacon pointed towards future action for the international museum community. The celebration of this day world-wide highlights that, "museums are an important means of cultural exchange, enrichment of cultures and development of mutual understanding, cooperation and peace among peoples". Theme for the International Museum day for 2023 is "Museum, Sustainability and Well-being". It focuses on the importance of the environment, health and well-being in everyday life, and how museums can contribute to these aspects as cultural institutions.

Museums in India, like in any former colonies, were brought in by the colonial rulers. Prior to the establishment of the first museum in India, the country had its own systems of collecting, preserving or documenting the heritage with living links and continuity alive. There were in fact numerous cultural platforms and institutional as well community mechanisms in all parts of India which preserved and passed on both the tangible and intangible cultural heritage in its dynamic form.

Growth of museums in India has to be seen both in terms of the increase in number and types as well as in terms of the evolutionary stages which led to the transformation of museums from an elite institution restricted to serve the scholarly people to educational institutions providing one of the best medium for non-formal education for all.

Since the establishment of the Indian Museum in Kolkata, in 1814, the first museum of India several museums have closed down and several new museums have sprung up while many more are being set up. However, the need to properly list out these museums has always been felt.

The first directory of Indian Museums was published in 1911. The 1911 directory of Indian museums contained a detailed report on each of the then existing 39 museums. The first detailed survey of museums of India conducted by S.F. Markham and H. Hargreaves in 1936 enlisted a total of 105 museums in India. The second updated directory produced post-partition by Shri C. Sivaramamurthi accounts for

174 Museums in India in 1959. The third directory was published by Mrs. Usha Agrawal for the first time in the year 2000 and later updated in the year 2003, 2009 and the recent one in 2013. In her first edition the number of museums she mentioned was 602, the updated figure was 657 in 2003, 746 in 2009 and 833 in 2013.

The need was keenly felt by the Ministry of Culture, Government of India to produce an up-to-date directory documenting the total number of museums as on 2023. Since the last decade, many museums have closed down while several museums have sprung up. This directory lists out a total of 1,176 museums.

This directory would not have been possible without the guidance of the Joint Secretary, Museums, Govt. of India, and the round-the-clock hard work of the team of researchers of NMI. This directory is one of its kind; it will offer a complete up-to-date overview of the museums existing across diverse regions of India; to the professionals, academicians, museum goers and museum lovers. This directory contains information mainly obtained from the existing directories of Sivaramamurthi and Usha Agrawal, Sahapedia and from the official websites of the listed museums. Every effort has been made to ensure that this directory is an accurate representation of the total number of museums in each state/UT of India, their location, typology, services and facilities offered by them.

The Directory is a work in progress proposed to be renewed each year with additions of museums being listed. It is hoped that it keeps growing and its growth reflects the diversity of museums in terms of size, type, collection and ownership. The diversity of museums in India is an ode to the diversity of cultural and natural heritage of India.

NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM

12.35

Name: Thiruvananthapuram Natural History Museum

Address: Thiruvananthapuram - 695033

State/UT: Kerala

Year of Establishment: 1964

Theme: Natural Heritage Museum

Overview: A Museum was started in the year 1853, in a part of the Bungalow of John Allan Broun, then Director of the Trivandrum Observatory. The specimen of Travancore rocks offered by General Cullen formed the earliest collection in the institution. This Museum was thrown open to the public in 1857. In 1880 the new building designed by Chisholm, Architect to the Government of Madras and named after Lord Napier, a Governor of Madras, was built. Natural history specimens formed the chief exhibit there besides the indigenous arts, crafts, industries and archaeology. Later a steady growth of the Museum collections in the Art and Natural History sections were achieved. In 1936, following the recommendations of the Museums of India Survey Committee, the Museum was further split up into a Museum of Natural History and an Art Museum. The Natural History exhibits were shifted to a building at Shankumukhom and placed under the control of Travancore University. The formation of the Kerala State in 1956 brought about an administrative re-union of the Museums, the Zoos and the Botanical Gardens at Thiruvananthapuram with which was also integrated the Cochin State Museum and Zoo at Trichur

Address: Vishveshwar Nagar, Goregaon, Mumbai - 400063, Maharashtra

State/UT: Maharashtra

Year of Establishment: 2011

Theme: History Museum

Overview: The Museum houses rare and antique Christian artefacts collected from churches in Bombay, Pune and Goa. On display is an early copy of King James' Bible, its leather binding foil stamped in gold with the twelve stations of the cross. Among the many manuscripts, religious objects and sculptures is a statue of St. Paul which originally belonged to the parish church of Malad, a suburb of Bombay. In typical cross-cultural style the statue sports a beard more at home on the chin of a Hindu mendicant and is perched atop a lotus- again a symbol associated with divinity in Hinduism.

PERSONALIA MUSEUM

16.14

Name: G.G. Swell Museum

Address: Dong Mission Road, Laitkynsew - 793108

State/UT: Meghalaya

Year of Establishment: 2016

Theme: Personalia Museum

Overview: The collection includes photographs, artefacts, and documentary films of G.G. Swell's life and career. His contribution to the formation of the State of Meghalaya and breaking away from Assam was undeniable. Just like other leaders who fought for the freedom of the Country, he too fought for the freedom of the State. The Museum design itself is planned so as to tell a story of his life, with one view window giving a glimpse of the ruins of his ancestral home. The Museum looks juxtaposed against the Laitkynsew landscape, touching it lightly and bringing in natural light into the interiors. Due to the heavy monsoon rains, this museum's roof-form with larger overhangs was made of metal and the approach walkway is also protected, creating a tunnel-like approach into the main gallery space.

Name: Arna Jharna, The Desert Museum

Address: Arna Vihar, Near Famous Arneshwar Mahadev Mandir, Arna Jharna Village, Moklawas - 342001

State/UT: Rajasthan

Year of Establishment: 2003

Theme: Ethnographic Museum

Overview: This Museum includes nearly 30 different varieties of trees and shrubs and is laid with a variegated carpet of about 30 different kinds of grass. Complexes of earth-red buildings in the local style of village architecture blend with the landscape. The museum boasts mainly of an extensive collection of brooms from Rajasthan, indicating entire galaxies of rituals and beliefs associated with them. A series of videos also highlights the communities, labour, skills and even risks associated with broom production with a view to sensitising the audience. Those technologies are fundamentally different from today's powerful production of generic drugs. The second module consists of a stunning collection of musical instruments unique to western India, including popular instruments such as the ravanhatta, gujratan sarangi, sindhi sarangi and the surinda, and some examples that are no longer used or produced, such as the jantar, jogia sarangi and nagfani. Pottery and puppetry are highlighted in two more modules. The museum pays tribute to the local communities and their local foundations of knowledge, art and culture, which is not a thing of the past, but a resource for rebuilding the present.

Address: Ganesh Vihar Colony, Kanota - 303012

State/UT: Rajasthan

Year of Establishment: Not Available

Theme: Historical Museum

Overview: Many objects in the Castle Kanota Museum date from Thakur Zorawar Singh's time, with gradual additions by other members of the family, particularly the multi-faceted General Amar Singh. Amar Singh is possibly the only Rajput nobility member who has developed and maintained a writing/chronicling practice. These diaries, culminating in a massive collection, provide an enthralling glimpse of Rajasthan's royal courts, colonial encounters, and intertwined histories. The remainder of the collection includes carriages, arms, armour, and firearms, as well as paintings, maps, photographs, books, and household accounts. Many of these objects are part of Kanota's living heritage and are regularly used for ceremonial purposes.

Overview: Museum displays an exquisite collection of ancient sculptures and coins. It is officially called the “Raja Raja Chola Art Gallery” and locally known as “Thanjavur Kalaikoodam”. The Bronze sculptures of Hindu Gods and Goddesses range from 9th century A.D to 19th century A.D is displayed in the Museum. Early Indian lifestyle, their clothing, ornaments and even hairdo are carved in these statues. Another interesting feature is the collection of old coins. Coins from as early as 300 B.C are exhibited here, which is quite astonishing. Artefacts are placed in a hall which used to be the Kings’ royal court (Durbar Hall). The walls and the ceiling of Durbar hall are superbly ornamented with paintings and statuettes. Even the pillars and arches are decorated with fascinating scenes from Hindu epics like Ramayana and Mahabharata.

State/UT: Telangana

Year of Establishment: 1930

Theme: Archaeological Museum

Overview: The Museum showcases Hindu, Jain and Buddhist sculptures and bronzes, decorative art objects, paintings (copies of Ajanta, Chugtai, Miniature and Modern) and 18th-19th century objects in a Period Room. The Museum's main attraction is its 2,353-year old Egyptian mummy, reportedly brought to Hyderabad by the son-in-law of VI Nizam Mahbub Ali Khan, who had then donated it to the last Nizam Mir Osman Ali Khan. There is also a huge gallery on Buddha and it has a wide variety of archaeological artefacts gathered from the Nizam era and Kakatiya dynasty. The collection is spread across two floors of the heritage building, two floors of semi circular galleries, in a separate contemporary art pavilion building and in an annex building located behind. The Sculpture Garden Gallery displays 93 sculptures and architectural items dating from Satavahana (2nd century B.C.) to the Post Vijayanagara period (17th century A.D.) in different stone media. The present Museum building reflects the Indo-Islamic architecture with subtle domes, high arches, stylistic windows and projected eaves

Name: Pondicherry Museum

Address: Eswaran Kovil Street, Canteen St. - 605001

State/UT: Puducherry

Year of Establishment: 1983

Theme: Multipurpose Museum

Overview: The Museum displays a variety of objects of the city's extensive cultural past. Exhibits can be primarily categorised into three historical periods: The Early period, The Pallava and Chola eras and the European era which was characterised by French colonial control. The Museum features artefacts such as rocks, jewellery, coins, and statues that were unearthed on the Arikamedu cultural site. They show the significance of Puducherry as a trading port between the first and second centuries. The museum has the largest collection of Bronze statues from the time the Chola dynasty ruled the region
